

Gene Lee: My top ten dishes of 2010
December 29, 2010

“Flounder at Bocado—Atlanta This next dish was something I had during the summer at Bocado on the Westside. I generally am disappointed by fish dishes in higher falutin’ places around town but Bocado generally gets it right. These days, they seem to be more known for their burger, but I almost always opt for whatever they’re doing with fish. This flounder over the summer was no exception; flaky, lightly seasoned and sitting on succotash in a hearty broth.”

*Gene Lee writes about International Cuisine for the AJC Dining Team. He also publishes his own blog, Eat, Drink, Man... A Food Journal.

BOCADO